

Dan Partney suing Brimberry for $4 million

DANIEL PARTNEY

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Daniel Partney, a Madison County Board member and former candidate for mayor of Granite City, has filed a $4 million lawsuit against Thomas Brimberry, a former officer of the defunct Stix & Co. stock brokerage, alleging that Brimberry harmed Partney's reputation and caused him to forfeit his public office through unfounded allegations of large campaign contributions.

The lawsuit, filed by Attorney Leon Scroggins of Granite City in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville, accuses Brimberry of making false statements that he had made between $50,000 and $75,000 in unreported campaign contributions directly to Partney for his campaign for mayor in April, 1981. It states that Brimberry contributed only $500 to Partney's campaign and that was reported on campaign financial disclosure statements.

It alleges that the Brimberry statements, contained in a copyrighted story in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Dec. 13, 1981, were made "with malice," caused irreparable harm to Partney's reputation and caused him to forfeit public office.

Partney did not seek re-election to his county board seat during this month's primary election. He told the Press-Record that he had decided not to run because he did not know where he would be living, in light of his pending divorce from Beverly Partney, who was likely to receive ownership of his house in that district.

The lawsuit also states that Brimberry "is a resident of the County of Madison and state of Illinois, and his physical presence may be elsewhere."

Scroggins attached a note to the lawsuit, saying he would prefer to discuss with the sheriff's department directly problems with serving Brimberry with legal notification of the lawsuit.

Several persons have said that they have seen Brimberry in Granite City in recent weeks, although the St. Louis newspapers contend he has been under federal protection.

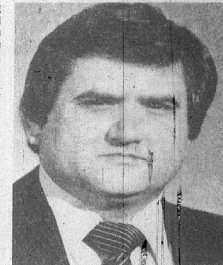

Partney told the Press-Record Friday afternoon that he did not wish to comment on the lawsuit, in compliance with instructions from his attorney to let the suit "speak for itself." He also refused to comment on how he might collect any money from Brimberry, in light of Brimberry's creditors and financial condition.

Partney said that there "has been some conversation" between himself and Brimberry, but said he would not comment on the frequency or content of those conversations.

Beverly Partney said this morning that her former husband may have said he had a recent telephone conversation with Brimberry, but she said that she cannot recall what he said about that conversation. Commenting on the $4 million lawsuit, Mrs. Partney said, "I don't know why Dan would do that. He told me he was going to."

Brimberry, former resident of a "mansion" on Westmoreland Drive, reached national attention when he and approximately $36 million in securities disappeared from Stix & Co. stock brokerage in St. Louis. Brimberry was senior vice-president of Stix at the time.

Subsequently, Stix was declared insolvent by a federal judge in November, 1981, and its assets were liquidated. The transfer of 3,000 to 5,000 accounts from Stix to Bache Halsey stock brokerage, under court order, (Continued on Page 4)

Bi-State fares to rise

The Board of Commissioners of The Bi-State Development Agency has voted to increase fares on all Bi-State Transit buses in the St. Louis metropolitan area, effective Monday, April 5.

The fare increase and concurrent bus service level reductions are necessary to avoid a projected $6.7 million operating deficit during Bi-State's fiscal year 1983, which begins July 1, 1982, Bi-State officials said. Federal operating subsidies, which currently provide almost 20 percent of the operating budget, are being phased out over a five-year period and will be completely eliminated by fiscal year 1985.

"The loss of federal operating funds coupled with continued inflation, has forced Bi-State to take this action in order to bring service in line with available funds," said Michael Setzer, Bi-State general manager of transit.

"This is only one of several steps we will have to take over the next few years. Reducing operating costs and increasing the percentage of those costs which are paid by the users of the system will be the name of the game, at least for the foreseeable future."

Beginning April 5, adult fares will rise to 75 cents for local service and $1 for commuter service. The current fare is 60 cents during peak hours and 50 cents at all other times on local routes. The present fare on commuter lines is 80 cents. The charge for transfers will remain at 10 cents.

Elderly and handicapped fares will rise from the current 25 cents on both local and commuter service to 35 cents. Transfers will continue to be issued at no charge to elderly and handicapped riders with proper identification.

Fares for children ages 5 through 12 will rise to 35 cents from 25 cents on local service. The child's commuter fare will remain at 50 cents.

Two extra charge zones will be established in the Illinois portion of the Bi-State service area only. The charge will be 10 cents for each zone to adult and child passengers and all no charge to elderly and handicapped passengers.

The cost of weekly passes, which are good for unlimited riding on all Bi-State buses, except the exception of the Racetrack Express, will rise from the present $8 to $10. The passes are good Tuesdays through Mondays. No zone or transfer charges are collected when boarding with weekly passes.

Student passes, which are sold only to bona fide students 19 years-of-age and under at their respective schools will rise in cost from the present $3 to $3.75. The passes entitle the holder to unlimited riding on all lines, with the exception of the Racetrack Express, between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays only.

The fare for Special Services will remain at $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children and the elderly and handicapped on the Racetrack Express. No decision whether to continue to operate the Six Flags and Mundy Opera Express routes in Missouri has been made at this time, Setzer said. They are both seasonal service and are not now operating.

As has been the practice in the past, exact change is required on all Bi-State buses, he noted.

Multipliers 111-119%

By BILL WINTER

As the Press-Record disclosed Feb. 25, Quad-Cityans will see about one-sixth added to their township-set assessments, through multipliers determined by Madison County. Little or no change is expected at an April 13 public hearing. Supervisor of Assessments James Barton said today.

Projected multipliers for the 1981 tax year (summer 1982 collection) include 1.1513 for Granite City real estate property, 1.1185 for Nameoki Township, 1.1605 for Venice Township (Venice-Madison area) and 1.1976 for Chouteau Township.

In the 24 townships, the multipliers for 1982 range from 1.0390 in New Douglas to 1.2363 in Wood River Township. More is listed for a negative multiplier, .9763.

County officials estimated a month ago that the Chouteau multiplier would be only 1.12 and Wood River 1.16, but in the meantime the State Appeals Board approved an assessment change sought by Shell Oil Co., Barton explained.

Purpose of the township multipliers is to raise the overall Madison County assessment to a level that will qualify for a 1 multiplier (no multiplier).

This is one of the few Illinois counties that obtains a 1 from the state government each year. A tentative multiplier of 1.1192 was set by the state's Department of Commerce and Community Affairs for Madison County but this is expected to be reduced to 1 due to the township multipliers.

The various multipliers are intended to make the tax burden fair in an area, compared to other areas. Assessment authorities point out that many governmental entities cross county boundaries and township lines, necessitating identical approaches to property valuation.

The sought-after ideal is assessing at exactly one-third of actual full value. However, state equalization is based on comparing the prices of individual properties sold over the past three years, and it is the three-year averaging process that causes erratic ups and downs in assessment patterns and multipliers, Barton believes.

Citing distortions associated with three-year averaging, Barton and many other assessment officers are urging corrective state legislation, and a study group has been appointed in Springfield.

Barton and the Madison County Board of Review mathematically determine each town's multiplier after receiving township-set assessments and conducting thousands of hearings.

Survey attitudes about GC qualities

Alan Richardson, manager of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, has completed compiling results of an "attitude" test given area government, industry, commercial, business and professional leaders, measuring their impressions of the area.

The test was given before the start of a four-week economic development re-education course, which has just been completed. It is hoped that identical testing now will show significant differences in the way local leaders view the community, as a result of the four-week informational sessions.

At the start of the four-week period, the group ranked its first impressions of the area's major liabilities, in order, from a choice of eight. Ranked from the worst liability, to the best, in the group's tests were:

1. Labor force
2. Attitude towards new industry
3. Available buildings
4. Existing metals industry

5. Utilities
6. Available land
7. Transportation system
8. Geographic location

The group also ranked the area's major strengths in this order:

1. Geographic location
2. Transportation systems
3. Available land
4. Existing metals industries
5. Labor force
6. Utilities
7. Available buildings
8. Attitude towards new industry

The group also selected what they felt were the main deterrents to growing industry here. In order, they were:

1. Poor labor image
2. Taxes
3. Operating costs
4. Negative attitude of area
5. Workmen's Compensation

City stickers on sale in GC

Motorists may now purchase their Granite City (wheel tax) stickers at the Granite City Hall and avoid long lines later, according to City Clerk Robert Stevens.

May 1 is the official city deadline for placement of the stickers on cars and other vehicles.

Motorists will have to pay double for their wheel stickers, if purchased after May 15, in addition to facing possible court costs and a fine cited by the police department for failure to have a city sticker by the deadline.

Avoiding the lines and fines should give car owners an extra incentive to purchase their stickers now, Stevens said. Auto stickers only also may be purchased at the National Food Store, Madison Avenue and Nameoki Road. The city clerk said two other grocery stores have indicated a willingness to participate and may shortly announce similar services.

To purchase the $5 auto sticker at National a car registration card will be required.

Stickers for senior citizens' autos may be purchased for $1.

Petitions oppose new IP rate plan

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler has called for a citizen petition drive protesting a proposed 19.9 percent electrical and 9.7 percent natural gas rate increase targeted for next year.

"This is getting ridiculous," Schuler said at Tuesday's Granite City Council session. "I think we should take steps to make our feelings known to the commission."

The Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) makes the decision whether or not to allow the new rate requests. If 10,000 to 20,000 signatures could be sent to Springfield during the upcoming public hearing at 10 a.m. Friday, April 16, in the Leland Building, 327 E. Capital Ave., the ICC might listen a little harder to the protest, according to the mayor.

Schuler said, "somewhere along the line we're going to have to impress" upon the ICC the objections of the city to another raise.

Alderman Jake Varadani asked the city attorney to draw up a petition form that aldermen could circulate in their wards.

The petitions were distributed to aldermen last week. Petitions are available at the city clerk's office at Granite City Hall.

The petitions should be returned to the city at least a week before the hearing, the mayor said.

The mayor asked for the more drastic action after previous attempts to register the feelings of the city at other ICC rate hike hearings seemed to have no effect. "We've done that in the past, apparently to little or no avail," the mayor said.

Alderman Casmer Skubish has spoken out against the increase at two recent council meetings, and initially made a motion that the city sent its attorney to Springfield. The council had passed a motion last year to send the city attorney to all ICC utility rate hearings.

Skubish contended that the ICC has been "too generous" with utility company rate requests in the past.

Illinois Power was given a rate increase of $104 million in July and $16.9 million increase of gas rates in 1979. The newly-proposed 19.9 percent electric increase would bring in an additional $141.1 million to the power company, and the 9.7 percent gas rate hike would provide $50.5 million annually.

According to Illinois Power, the request was filed only after the company implemented an intensive cost-cutting program that reduced the need for revenue during the next two years by $50 million. The need to maintain financial in- (Continued on Page 4)

Enrollment opens at St. Peter preschool

Enrollment has started at St. Peter School for the Young Years for 3-and-4-year-old children who wish to attend classes in the 1982-83 school year.

The preschool program, now completing its second year under new supervision and with a new curriculum, is held in the educational building at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ, 2103 Cleveland Blvd.

Classes in the next school year, which begin after Labor Day and continue through May 1983, will be filled on a first come, first serve basis.

Tuition charges are nominal and further information may be secured by calling 877-1904, the sponsors said.

The school will operate one session for 3 year olds on Tuesday and Thursday and another for 4-year-old children on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The hours for both groups will be from 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Each class level is taught a separate curriculum complete with learning activities and art, music and motor skills. Each child is encouraged to develop at his own pace.

Additionally, there are field trips to local attractions, holiday parties, cooking experiences and walks to the library.

Darlene Bozzardi and Lou Ann Hollis, who are fully accredited Early Childhood teachers, work with the youngsters at all times. Both have been with the program the past two years.

Mrs. Bozzardi, a graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has a bachelor's degree in Elementary Education, specializing in Early Childhood techniques. She taught in the Granite City School District for five years, including two years in kindergarten.

Mrs. Hollis is a graduate of Western Illinois University, where she earned a bachelor's degree in Elementary Education and specialized in Early Childhood techniques. She also has experience teaching in the Granite City public schools.

A committee of five educators serves as directors of the school, with Mrs. Ruth Ann Bartels as chairman.

Jobs for 9 of 10 BAC career grads

Ninety percent of Belleville Area College 1980 and 1981 graduates of career programs were able to find employment, in spite of current economic trends.

A survey by BAC's Financial Aid and Placement Office shows 64 percent of the students who graduated from one-year or two-year career programs in the fall 1980 and spring 1981 semesters are working full-time. Twenty-six percent hold part-time positions.

The survey also focused on graduates of the college's university-transfer program.

Seventy-eight percent of the recent graduates are students at a four-year college or university; 63 percent attend full-time.

Income level of graduates also was measured by the survey. Graduates of career programs entering high-demand fields such as data processing are earning over $15,000 a year.

Although career programs are designed to prepare students for immediate employment, many graduates are continuing their education. Twenty-nine percent are enrolled in classes at this time.

Graduates of BAC university-transfer programs have found BAC a good base from which to earn a four-year degree, a spokesman said. Recent reports from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and at Edwardsville show that BAC transfer students, on the average, out-perform the typical student transferring from a state community college.

Most are working as well as continuing their education. Thirty percent have full-time jobs and 35 percent have part-time jobs. Seventy-eight percent of the 954 graduates contacted responded.

Statistics indicate new drunk driving law works

Secretary of State Jim Edgar said Friday that a sharp reduction in Illinois traffic fatalities during January and February provides further evidence that the state's new drunk driving law is reducing the number of traffic deaths caused by alcohol.

"During the first two months of this year, Illinois recorded 163 traffic fatalities," Edgar said. "Fatalities during January and February are 39 percent below the 266 traffic deaths recorded during January and February of 1981. Because alcohol is thought to be a factor in about 50 percent of all traffic fatalities, we think these figures indicate the new drunk driving law is having its intended effect," he contended.

Edgar also said figures compiled by the Illinois State Police indicate drunk driving arrests increased 48 percent in February compared to February of last year.

"State Police troopers reported making 510 DUI (Driving Under the Influence) arrests last month, compared to 356 arrests during February, 1981," Edgar said. "I am told the 510 drunk driving arrests may be the largest number recorded by State Police during a single month."

"These high arrest figures indicate the new DUI law is reducing the number of drunk drivers endangering motorists on our highways," Edgar said. "The publicity and public interest surrounding the new law also are serving as deterrents to reduce the number of persons who drink, then get behind the wheel."

Edgar said the large increase in DUI arrests during February occurred despite several heavy snowstorms that undoubtedly reduced the number of persons on the state highways.

"Our major objectives in working for the new drunk driving law were to increase DUI arrests and reduce the number of persons killed or injured by drunk drivers. After two months of enforcement, I think it's clear the new drunk driving law is living up to our expectations," Edgar said.

Passage of the tougher DUI law was spearheaded in the House by State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) and in the Senate by Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville).

Deadline for student benefits

Cuts in Social Security benefits scheduled to take effect May 1 could affect as many as 700 students already attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Vice President and Provost Barbara J. Teters has warned.

"High school students in particular should be alert for the May 1 deadline," Dr. Teters said. "Nationwide, up to 300,000 seniors could lose their benefits unless they are enrolled and attending a college."

"Some have already made arrangements, but upcoming registration for the Spring Quarter at SIUE could be the last chance for many area students facing this problem."

Congress voted last August to cut off eligibility for aid from the Social Security program. Students who enroll in college after May 1, 1982, are affected.

Previously, benefits were available to children of Social Security recipients until the age of 19 if they were in high school. For college students, eligibility went to the age of 22; for non-students, benefits ended at 18.

Until Congress acted, students covered by Social Security — with one or both parents deceased, totally disabled, or retired — had been eligible to receive more than $2,000 a year for school expenses.

Students on the rolls prior to May 1 will be able to receive this assistance until they reach 22 or until April 1985. However, the amount of benefits will be cut 25 percent annually each September.

In addition, the cost of living increase has been eliminated, and no checks will be sent in May, June or August even if the student is attending college.

Students who may be eligible for Social Security support may contact the university. The Office of Admissions (692-3010) will work with Student Work and Financial Assistance to assist those who must meet the deadline.

Scouting 'te's it like it is' on drug abuse

An active anti-drug stand is taken by the Boy Scouts of America, which charters cub packs for young boys, scout troops for boys in pre-teen and teen years, and explorer posts for boys and girls of high school age.

Scouting Magazine in September 1981 went into the subject in detail, saying:

"Make no mistake about it. Marijuana use among our children is epidemic, and its harmful effects on their minds and bodies have been clearly documented by reputable scientists throughout the world.

"The major active ingredient of marijuana, delta-9-THC, remains in the fatty tissues of every cell, especially in the brain and glands.

"Even a week after one marijuana joint is smoked, 30 to 50 percent of the THC is still in the body in an active form.

"For motor skills such as driving, reaction time is reduced by 41 percent after smoking just one joint, and by 83 percent after smoking two of them. This fact is worth remembering when kids say that marijuana is a simple, harmless weed.

"These are some of the symptoms of marijuana use that all parents should be aware of—

"A significant drop in the quality of their child's schoolwork.

"A reduced attention span.

"Secretiveness about money.

"Strong overreaction to mild criticism.

"Neglect of personal appearance.

"An impaired ability to communicate clearly.

"A less than normal sensitivity to the feelings of friends and family members.

"A pale face, imprecise eye movements and red eyes."

William Monica, Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council executive, notes that The Official Boy Scout Handbook deals directly with drug abuse. He recalls its advice to young men:

"Protect yourself against yourself. Many young people are bored because they have little interest in anything. Many others get themselves into all kinds of troubles. And, so, they take what they consider the easy way out.

"They turn to drugs to get a 'high' for excitement, or a 'low' for forgetting their problems. They often wind up being no good to themselves and no good to anybody else.

"What is a drug? It is a substance other than food that has an effect on the body or the mind, or on both.

"Drugs are of great value to doctors. Physicians can prescribe drugs to ease pain, to fight infections, to relax muscles, to quiet nerves, to cause changes in the body.

"But some drugs are abused for 'kicks' without being prescribed by a doctor. All of them affect the health, one way or another, of all persons using them.

"Mild drugs—Coffee, tea and cold drinks contain a mild drug called caffeine. It stirs up the nervous system and speeds up the heart. Milk or water is far better. Milk is nourishment. Coffee and tea or not, except for the milk added.

"Tobacco—After many years of careful research, doctors agree that smoking endangers health. It causes lung cancer and weakens the heart. Tobacco has nicotine. But even worse is the tar from tobacco smoke. Imagine having the inside of your lungs tarred up."

"Dangerous drugs—Some drugs are dangerous to have. The possession of one of them—alcohol—by a person not of legal age is against the law. The possession of most of the others, without a doctor's prescription, is illegal in all states.

"Alcohol—One look at a drunk staggering down the street is enough to tell you that alcohol slows down the body and the brain. Alcohol can turn a strong man into a weeping child.

"I can change a person into a raving maniac. It destroys families. It kills people outright and by drunken drivers.

"Marijuana smoking may distort hearing, vision, and sense of time. Heavy use may produce boredom, disinterest in things and friends, and dropping away from normal activities.

"Substances such as model airplane glue, paint thinner, and other solvents contain chemicals. Their fumes were never meant to be inhaled.

"Many of the containers warn against doing this. Sniffing the fumes produces a clouded mental state and may cause the sniffer to black out.

"Death can occur when the fumes are inhaled without enough oxygen. Hallucinogens cause a change in the way a person sees, hears, tastes, smells, feels and thinks. These sensations are often called 'trips.' They may turn into 'bad trips.'

"A gentle dream can switch to a violent nightmare. Many drugs of this type are known by the initials of the chemicals; LSD is one of these drugs.

"When using it, a person may lose knowledge of himself. He does not know what is real and what is not. His emotions may swing abruptly from bliss to horror.

"Stimulants—A drug that excites or overworks the brain is a stimulant. Some are known as 'speed' or 'pep pills.' They are used by persons who want to push themselves beyond their normal limits.

"Abuse of stimulants may cause liver and kidney damage and higher blood pressure. The users of stimulants may get upset and act strangely.

"Sedatives and tranquilizers—Sedatives are used to bring about sleep.

"Some of them—barbiturates—make their users 'go off' and go to sleep. They are, therefore, called 'go off' pills or 'sleepers.' An overdose of sedatives can kill.

"Narcotics—When correctly prescribed by a doctor, they will relieve pain and bring sleep. The dangers of narcotics use are extreme.

"A user comes to depend on them. When he is hooked, he can't help himself. He must have more and still more.

"To get the money he needs to buy drugs from some 'junkie,' he may stage a holdup. He may even commit murder.

"The handbook notes that Baden-Powell, the founder of scouting, sometimes thought of adding one more point to the Scout Law:

"A scout is not a fool."

But he decided against it, figuring that a boy smart enough to base his life on the Scout Oath would be smart enough to stay away from anything that was unwholesome or illegal or both.

The handbook sums up, "As a scout, you will agree with Baden-Powell. If you have been foolish, there is no law that says you have to stay that way."

Madison County drug law enforcement personnel agree that many people see the error of their ways and do end their drug abuse. But the officers stoutly deny the accuracy of a widely-held belief—that the overall volume of drug activity in Madison County and environs is diminishing.

Police and rehabilitation center operators say that, so far, there has been no decrease in drug use—despite widespread shock from the tragic death on March 5 of comedian and motion picture star John Belushi.

Belushi's constant, joking admission to friends was to "wise up." But authorities say that he, sadly, was not wise enough at the age of 33 to avoid the cocaine and heroin use that ended his life.

The actor is said to have felt that, with his fame and fortune, he needed something "extra"—such as drug abuse—to somehow "authenticate" his wealth and his unique stature as a celebrity.

But instead he joined the long list of entertainment stars like singer Janis Joplin and actors known—whose lives were cut short by accidental drug overdoses.

researched by the State Board of Elections. There is no clear precedent to follow regarding a deadline for committee members from a five-county district like the new 21st Illinois Congressional District.

Gov. James R. Thompson spoke at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Adlai Stevenson at 2 p.m. and Sen. Alan Dixon at 2:30 p.m. Saturday as more than 500 Illinois Federation of Teachers members held their 44th state convention at the Sheraton-St. Louis Hotel.

The Illinois Supreme Court agreed last week to delay enforcement of a Circuit Court ruling that found the state water fluoridation law unconstitutional. The appeal process may take two years; during that time, the drinking water supply will continue to be fluoridated to reduce dental decay.

A 5 percent pay cut for congressmen is being urged by Cong. Paul Findley, R-Pittsfield, whose current district includes the Alton area. He proposes that Congress set the best possible example in dealing with the budget crisis."

Price inflation slowed to 0.2 percent in February after dropping to 0.3 percent in January, and there are some predictions of zero inflation in March. While this trend is being applauded, concern continues regarding the recession and unemployment.

Favorable economic factors include a worldwide oil oversupply.

GRANITE CITY (III.) PRESS-RECORD, Monday, March 29, 1982—3

City OKs air pact

By GEORGEANN MCGEE of the Press-Record

The Granite City Council has approved by a 10-3 vote a new air pollution control pact that will phase out the city's air sample monitoring duties and emphasize plant surveillance and response to resident complaints.

The agreement halts an earlier recommendation to end the city's role in air pollution control made by two of the five Granite City Air Pollution Board members and the chairman of the council's air pollution control committee.

"I think we are much better equipped to handle part of our problems," said Mayor Paul Schuler. Alderman Casmer Skubish, chairman of the air pollution committee, asked the council to accept the contract, despite his earlier feelings the division be eliminated.

Skubish had objected to the transfer of the program's purse strings from federal to state controls. He viewed the switch as a financial threat to the program.

The city lost eligibility for continued federal funding this year after cutting more than 50 percent of its air control staff.

The new grant for $10,936 will be supplemented by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as the city-federal government agreement is concluded.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer, air pollution control director, said the new contract extends from the date of acceptance until June 30, the end of the state's budget year. A new contract will have to be written from June until October, when the state learns how much money will be forthcoming from the new federal budget.

He anticipates a yearly $25,000 grant from the state to support the city's new air pollution control $50,000 budget, down by almost half from last year.

Mayor Paul Schuler said the Granite City Air Pollution Board is still without two board members, who resigned after waiting several months for a new contract agreement.

Schuler earlier said he hoped the new contract will bring the members, including President R. William Rotter, back to the board. Tuesday, Schuler said he is still waiting for "whatever they choose to do."

The Granite City Council did not seek the advice of the board on the new contract.

Alderman Sam Whitmer voted against the agreement, saying staff reductions may have cut the efficiency of the division.

Alderman Carl Kittel, member of the air pollution control committee, said in a industrial hub the expertise and familiarity with local situations still makes the air pollution control division here valuable.

"They (state) don't have the personnel. We have the expertise here," Kittel said. Schuler agreed and said the reduced staff may sometime in the future be built back to its former numbers.

was the largest in the history of the securities industry. Approximately 10 clients and 15 Stix officers who had accounts larger than the $500,000 insured by the Securities Investor Protection Corp. lost money in the collapse, according to officials.

Brimberry was not seen locally after the Stix collapse, but St. Louis newspapers contended that he was talking to federal authorities and had implicated others in an alleged scheme to loot Stix of securities and money. The allegations did not, in any way, link Partney to the Stix scheme, but Brimberry alleged that he gave nearly $75,000 to Partney's campaign for mayor.

Mrs. Partney said she is unaware of Brimberry's whereabouts and said she seldom has reason to contact him. When she does, she sends messages through Brimberry's attorney, she said.

The Granite City Council increased passenger vehicle sticker prices from $3 to $5 this year, as well as hiking the cost of stickers in all other categories.

The new price for motorcycles or motor bicycles is $3.

Trucks will be charged according to weight, as follows: one ton, $10; two tons, $12; two to three tons, $15; three to four tons, $17; four to five tons, $20; and more than five tons, $31.

tegrity, cover increasing costs of operations and to support the construction program are the reasons for the request, according to Illinois Power.

Illinois Attorney General Tyrone Fahner plans to present testimony at the ICC hearing. He has aimed some criticism at Illinois Power construction costs, referring to the millions of dollars needed to complete the Clinton Nuclear Power Plant. The plant is located about 50 miles from Springfield and construction is behind schedule.

The attorney general is concerned that giving rate increases while construction is currently in progress does not invite economic efficiency. The construction costs have risen from $430 million to a current estimate of $1.8 billion.

According to Illinois Power, typical residential users could receive an increase of $4.81 to $13.34 per month for electric costs, if the request is granted. The increase for a typical customer who uses gas for home heating would be approximately $8.53 per month.

Illinois Power Vice-President Larry D. Haab said, "By cutting costs and deferring or postponing expenditures whenever possible, we have delayed this filing with the hope that the increase will become cost effective when economic conditions are improved."

The increase, if granted by the ICC, would become effective in January.

Multipliers

An attempt is made to encourage uniform procedures by assessors and to equalize all under-assessments and over-assessments.

The assessment multipliers will not become official until after the public hearing, which is set for 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 13, at the Madison County Courthouse.

Barton says 22 of the 24 township multipliers already have been approved by the state.

All will be approved as prepared unless someone at the hearing presents information that would substantially alter an entire township's assessment, he adds.

The county's assessment total is estimated at $13.35 billion, compared to $12.1 billion a year ago. The two figures do not include state-set railroad property valuations.

Kindergarten registration

In announcing April 13-16 registration dates for next year's kindergarten classes, Granite City District Nine Superintendent of Schools B. J. Davis today urged the cooperation of all parents of children who will start kindergarten in August.

"Registration of all such children this spring will enable the school district to anticipate more accurately both the space and personnel needed," he said.

Any child who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1982 is eligible to enroll in kindergarten for this fall. Kindergarten classes are half-day sessions and are held at each elementary school.

He emphasized that a birth certificate and immunization record should be presented at the time of registration. Hospital records are not accepted. The records must be presented before actual attendance can begin in the fall.

Illinois law states that no child may enter school for the first time without the following immunizations: whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis, rubella (measles), and rubella (3-day measles). Exceptions are made only for religious or medical reasons.

The Collinsville Chapter of Sweet Adelines, under the direction of George Holscher, placed second in regional competition held at the Chase Park Plaza, St. Louis, last week. The group was edged out of first place by three points by a chorus twice the size.

The Sweet Adelines are opening their membership for auditions, in all voice parts. They are inviting all area ladies who like to sing — and would like to try four-part barbershop harmony — to visit a rehearsal any Tuesday, 7-10 p.m.

No formal voice training is necessary.

For the location, those interested may call 344-6636 or contact any Granite City member: Pat Farrington, Donna Feig, Betty Goldschick, Edith Headrick, Jody Little, Edith McCann, Billie Vance, Linda Watson, or Betty Moritz.

The chapter bulletin, "Tepee Town Tales," and its editor, Sue Leichsenring, placed first in the bulletin contest.

One of the chapter quartets, "Sunshine Company," was named regional champion and will be competing in international competition next October.

Tuesday, April 13: Frohardt, Maryville and Wilson.

Wednesday, April 14: Lake, Parkview and Webster.

Thursday, April 15: Johnson, Logan, Mitchell and Niedringhaus.

Nazarene Church revival

Paul and Trish Jackson, singers, musicians, and puppeteers, will be the featured speakers at revival services to be held at the First Church of the Nazarene, 4701 Highway 111, according to the Rev. William Roddy, pastor.

Services will be conducted at 7:30 each evening beginning on Tuesday, March 30, and continuing through Saturday April 3. On Sunday, April 4, worship hours will be at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., the minister added.

The combined musical talents of the couple present a versatile program of vocal duets and solos, and various instruments. Speaking, drama, and puppetry are other important avenues of ministry for both.

Mrs. Jackson received her B.A. degree in applied piano from Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, Idaho. While there she traveled with a number of singing groups to Europe, Alaska, and the northwestern United States, and with a select group of college young people sponsored by the General Church of the Nazarene.

Jackson was educated at Pasadena College, where he majored in music. He has been a member of various musical groups and involved as a leader in youth camps and Young Life. His responsibilities as an associate pastor have given him a rich background in church youth activities, choir directing, and outreach evangelism.

Teachers to explore other careers

The new exploratory leave policy enacted here last week provides that "the Board of Education may grant a leave of absence for certificated personnel, without pay, for one year to explore careers outside of Community Unit School District No. 9."

"This policy is in effect for the 1982-83 and 1983-84 years and will be reviewed prior to the 1984-85 school year for further usage."

"The superintendent of schools is responsible for the issuance and execution of appropriate administrative policy, rules and regulations."

Applicants must have at least six consecutive years of full-time experience in District 9. There will be no pay or fringe benefits during an exploratory leave, but an applicant may elect to continue his insurance with the district at the employee's expense. Any exploratory leave approvals will take place in May, the application deadline is May 14. Intention to return must be communicated by March 1, 1984, for the 1984-85 year.

When an exploratory leave is granted, the individual is assured of being rehired in the district at the time a vacancy exists for which the person is qualified. There is no guarantee, upon return from a leave of absence, of any particular work assignment.

An exploratory leave does not cause a break in continuous service insofar as tenure status in the district is concerned. But the time spent on the leave does not contribute to length of service in the district.

Those on exploratory leave must not substitute within the district, and they cannot return to their work assignment before the leave's termination date.

Congressional leaders react favorably to report

Congressional leaders of both parties have reacted favorably to a report by the National Wildlife Federation warning against cuts in the budget of the Environmental Protection Agency proposed by the Reagan Administration.

The NWF study found that the Reagan Administration, with its proposal for an EPA budget 29 percent under what Congress appropriated for the agency in 1981, was "moving to cut the EPA in half at a time when its workload is doubling." If Congress accepted the $961 million Reagan budget for fiscal 1983, said the conservation group, it would mean a "wrongful death by strangulation" for EPA.

Sen. Robert T. Stafford (R-Vt.), chairman of the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee, said NWF had performed a "valuable public service" and added: "I share some of the concerns expressed (in the report) as to whether EPA can carry out its Congressionally-mandated responsibilities if further budget reductions are approved."

House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, Jr. (D-Mass.), at a news conference with four other Democratic Congressmen, praised the report and called the Administration's EPA budget a "radical demolition program." He promised to "fight it every step of the way."

O'Neill also accused President Reagan of breaking a tradition of bipartisanship on environmental issues. Rep. Morris K. Udell (D-Ariz.), chairman of a new Democratic task force on the environment, charged that EPA is being mugged in the "daylight" and predicted that the Administration's position on environmental protection would be a "major issue" in the 1982 Congressional campaign.

Other Democrats backing O'Neill at that briefing were Reps. Albert Gore, Jr. (Tenn.), Thomas J. Downey (N.Y.) and Gillis Long (La.), chairman of a new Democratic task force on the environment, briefing a group of 19 House Republicans signed a statement commending the report and saying some of the EPA's national attention and asserting that "the laws that protect the health of the people and the integrity of our national environment are a matter of national interest and are not a partisan issue."

The Republicans' statement continued: "Our environmental laws will become meaningless unless they are effectively enforced. The health-based standards that are the key to the Clean Air Act and the Clean Water Act must continue to be supported by a strong federal research program. Finally, we must maintain a capacity to analyze and respond to new challenges to the environment before they become national emergencies."

"All these functions must be assumed by the Environmental Protection Agency, which was founded under a Republican Administration and has enjoyed bipartisan support in the Congress since its inception. We are determined that the EPA will continue to play its traditional role — to safeguard the health and protect the environment of the American people."

The GOP Congressmen signing the letter were Reps. Judd Gregg (N.H.), Vin Weber (Minn.), Jerry Lewis (Calif.), James M. Jeffords (Vt.), Jim Leach (Ia.), Hamilton Fish, Jr. (N.Y.), Claudine Schneider (R.I.), Guy V. Molinari (N.Y.), Tom Tauke (Ia.), Joel Deckard (Ind.), Lawrence J. DeNardis (Conn.), David F. Emery (Me.), Joel Pritchard (Wash.), Christopher H. Smith (N.J.), Harold C. Hollenbeck (N.J.), Jim Dunn (Mich.), Carl D. Purcell (Mich.), Millicent Fenwick

(N.J.), and Steward McKinney (Conn.).

In presenting the 46-page NWF report on the EPA budget, Dr. Jay D. Hair, executive vice president of the NWF, said that a study of the document led to the "inescapable conclusion that no Administration could on the proposed budget, adequately enforce such laws as the Clean Air Act, the Clean Water Act, the Toxic Substances Control Act, the Hazardous Wastes Act, the Safe Drinking Water Act, the Pesticide Control Act, and the Superfund law."

The NWF report presented an alternate budget of $2.16 billion, which, Hair said "is the amount we need if we are to continue making progress toward clean air, toward fishable and swimmable waters, if we are to have an idea what some 55,000 industrial plants are dumping into our waterways, if we are to have no more Love Canal, no more chemical explosions in New Jersey, no more Kepone disasters in Virginia—if we are to gain any semblance of control over the rapidly accelerating threat of deadly toxins in our environment."

Senator Stafford, whose committee will handle the EPA budget, said that the NWF study will receive "full consideration" by his group.

Call first if you dig it

Call JULIE at 800-892-0123, Illinois Bell advises people who dig.

A single telephone call to JULIE can help prevent damage to buried telephone and electric wires and gas and water pipelines, it is emphasized.

JULIE (Joint Utility Locating Information for Excavators) is a computerized, one-call notification system for use by contractors and other diggers to alert utilities to upcoming excavation activities.

Roy Wilson, distribution facilities assistant manager, said today that diggers damage an Illinois Bell cable on the average of once every three hours. The accidents are more frequent in the spring when planting, construction and other outdoor work gets under way.

Contractors and others who damage Illinois Bell facilities are subject to billing for the cost of repairs, Wilson said.

"Last year, we investigated about 2,000 cases," said "it cost us $1.2 million to repair the damage and we billed almost $1 million of that amount to the people who caused the damage."

To prevent these occurrences, diggers in Illinois, except in Chicago, can call without charge to JULIE — 800-892-0123 — for help in locating buried cables, wires and pipelines.

Inside Chicago city limits, diggers contact the Utility Alarm Network by calling 74-7000.

Callers to JULIE need to provide information on the location of the dig, including county and township. The callers should also give the section number, if possible.

The information is available on city, township and county maps and plot books and on maps from the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Illinois Bell has more than 50,737 miles of buried cable and thousands of miles of underground service wires leading to homes. Damage to these facilities can cut off communications and sometimes imperil emergency services.

Wilson said that although contractors are the major diggers, homeowners and planters, also should call JULIE before digging.

They should take extra care to avoid digging up buried phone cables and service wires that were formerly strung on poles, he said, adding:

"Diggers should call at least 48 hours before they intend to start digging. This gives the utility time to look up the necessary data and get to the site before digging starts."

Woman hurt at 21st-Washington

While turning from Washington Avenue into 21st Street, a vehicle operated by Carl D. Smith, 39, of 39 Parkview West, veered to the left and hit a parking meter and then struck the north side of a building at 207 Washington last week.

Smith said another auto ran a stop sign, causing him to make a sharp turn. He was ticketed for failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Opal Garner of Granite City, a passenger in Smith's vehicle, reportedly sustained an injury, but declined medical attention and left the scene, officers said.

2nd annual Chamber Clean-Up Week will start April 24

The Community Betterment Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, is completing preparations for the annual Clean Up Kick Off date of Saturday, April 24.

The Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, their leaders and community volunteers plan to surpass their successful efforts of last year.

"This year, when St. Louis is launching its first clean up effort, we of the Quad Cities will be involved in our second annual Clean Up Week, April 24 to April 30," according to Ray Edwards, general chairman of the campaign.

Jim Walla of SCA Services, a member of the Quad Cities Community Betterment Committee, has informed the committee that trash picked up by the Quad-Cities area street departments during the first cleanup week would have filled 11 boxcars.

"Let us all take pride in our Chamber, and our community, and become personally involved. Let's pick-up, paint-up, and clean-up. Your community is what your personal efforts make it," Edwards concluded.

Arrest follows station incident

Paul W. Madewell, 2408 State St., was arrested at 11:30 p.m. last week and charged with battery and resisting arrest, following an incident at the Shell Service Station, Nameoki and Johnson roads.

An attendant at the station alleged a man with Madewell was trying to remove a package of cheese crackers from the station when he stopped him and took the package from the man's pocket, telling him he was going to call police.

At this point, the station employee alleged, Madewell entered the station, grabbed him by the throat and said, "It didn't do any good calling police." The first man then broke up the incident, he said.

Officers arrived and took Madewell in custody from a van at the gas pumps. At police headquarters, he allegedly used profanity, refused to cooperate and pushed and tried to grab three officers.

Madewell was released at 3:25 a.m. Wednesday on payment of a $52 cash bond.

Alleges battery at GC drive-in Danny R. Mendoza, 21, of 2452 Kilarney Ave., was charged with battery, following an incident last week at Jack-In-The-Box restaurant, 3330 Nameoki Road.

An officer reported seeing a man get out of a vehicle in the drive-through lane and approach the auto ahead in line, but then return to his vehicle after noticing the squad car.

A moment or two later, the officer drove past the restaurant again and saw the same man walk up to the car ahead, reach inside and allegedly strike the driver four or five times.

The man, later identified as Mendoza, declined to place his hands on the hood of the car when instructed by the officer and had to be handcuffed.

Police were told that Mendoza took exception to the officer's car pulling into line ahead of his vehicle while he and a friend were deciding what to order.

Mendoza was released at 3:25 a.m. Wednesday on payment of a $52 cash bond.

Steelers finish seventh in prestigious event

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

ALTON — None of Granite City North's individuals or relays took first or second place in any of the events in the 21st annual Alton Relays track meet Saturday.

But third, fourth and fifth places aren't bad when one considers the competition North faced in this meet. For instance, East St. Louis Lincoln, the defending Class AA state boys track champions, took most of the first places and scored 132 points to win the Relays. East St. Louis Senior was a distant second with 95 points.

Strong track teams such as Hazelwood Central, Riverview Gardens, Alton, O'Fallon and Cahokia also filled in much of the second and third places.

STEELERS FINISH SEVENTH

North was seventh with 27 points. "The kids did really well," North coach Harry Lang said. "There was some super good competition over there with Lincoln, East St. Louis and Belleville West. We placed in almost everything we expected to place in." David Rensing was the top individual performer for the Steelers. Rensing was third in the discus with a throw of 43.55 meters (144'2") and fourth in the shot put with a throw of 14.43 meters (47'4").

"The indoor season was a good indication of who was going to be good, and Rensing looked like he was going to be good," Lang said. "He's going to get better as the year goes on, and he should be around 150 feet all year."

North's David Long was third in the triple jump with a leap of 12.62 meters (41'4").

Two of North's relays, the 4-mile relay and the distance medley (2½ miles), finished in fourth place. The four mile relay, John Peters, Jim Robertson, Bill Schaefer and Kenny Meyer, ran that event in 20:01.25. The distance medley, Peters, Schaefer, David Davis and Robertson, ran that race in 11:42.27.

The eight-man mile relay and the 480 high hurdle shuttle teams finished fifth.

"The kids did really well...There was some super good competition over there with Lincoln, East St. Louis and Belleville West. We placed in almost everything we expected to place in."

O'Fallon was not included in team standings.

"Our hitting will be our strong point...They seem to be hitting the ball pretty well."

*Pat Yates
Warrior softball coach*

Jenny Will, Carrie Ross and Debbie Green and juniors Amy Andrews and Vicki Szymek.

Inclement weather has hindered practicing outdoors, so Yates is still unsure how the team will fare in game situations.

"Our hitting will be our strong point," Yates said. "They seem to be meeting the ball pretty well."

Another strong point of the team will be their base running skills. Paula Durnitz, Vicki Smith and Dottie Smith all are quick and agile. "If they can get on base, we'll take an extra base whenever we can," Yates said.

Pitching could present problems for South, since all of the pitchers are young. Yates believes the girls do have potential.

"They don't have a lot of speed but they're getting better control," Yates said. "Most of these girls are willing to work hard and within a year or two they should be pretty good."

Since it is a rebuilding year for South, Yates would be happy if the team won half of its games. "It takes them several games to get accustomed to the pitching and really being in the game," Yates said. "Being a young team, we should be pretty good but it might take a year."

The girls will open their season on Wednesday, March 31 with a 4 p.m. home game against O'Fallon.

TOP COMPETITOR. David Rensing was Granite City North's top individual competitor in the Alton Relay track meet Saturday. Rensing finished third in the discus and fourth in the shot put. Above Rensing is throwing the shot for the fourth place distance of 47-feet-4.

Steelers stronger, but fall to O'Fallon

O'FALLON — Granite City North didn't win its triangular meet with O'Fallon and Mascoutah here last Monday, but the Steelers opened its outdoor season stronger than usual. O'Fallon, with one-two finishes in the distance events, won the meet with 90 points, North scored 66 points, and Mascoutah was third with 30 points.

"In comparison to how we've done the last two years in this meet, most of our times and distances we better than the last two years. All the kids are on schedule," North coach Harry Lang said. "O'Fallon had the best cross country team in southwestern Illinois this season; and that success rubbed off on the distance events. Not only did O'Fallon runners finish first and second in the 800, 1600 and 3200 meter runs, but O'Fallon took the 800 and 3200 relays as well."

"We got beat by a quality team," Lang said. David Rensing was a double winner for the Steelers. He won the discus with a throw of 140'9" and the shot put with a heave of 47'2".

"Throwing the discus 140 this time of the year is pretty good," Lang said.

Todd George also won the 200 meters in 23.9 seconds. The Steelers' Doug Shepherd was second in that event.

David Davis was first in the 300 meter hurdles, running that event in 42.8 seconds.

North also won the 400 and 1600 relays. The 400 relay team of Shepherd, George, Tim Dean and Allen Prengel ran that event in 46.5 seconds, and the 1600 relay team of Dean, Bill Schaefer, Davis and Joel Hubert won in 3:43.

George and Shepherd finished two-three in the 100 yard dash.

"If we or Mascoutah were able to break their one-two string in the distance events, it would have been a closer meet," Lang said. "We had to go head to head against O'Fallon's distance people, and Mascoutah wasn't getting many seconds to help us out."

North will run in the Alton Relays Saturday.

By TERESA GULL
of the Press-Record

Lady Steelers more experienced, look to improve

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Gus Lignoul, Granite City North's girls softball coach, is expecting a lot of improvement out of his girls this year.

"The Steelers, 1-9 last season, will be young but much more experienced this season. How successful the team will be relies on a couple of factors — the Steelers' pitching and the ability of the infield to jell together."

Pitching was the biggest problem for the Steelers last season. "We had pretty good hitting last year and we scored a lot of runs, but they were able to score a lot of runs off of us last season," Lignoul said.

Monica Fanning, a sophomore, was North's most experienced pitcher last season, but she struggled and was 0-7 last season. Lignoul didn't give up on her, and she will be one of the Steelers' top pitchers this season.

"She improved 100 percent since last season," Lignoul said.

Kristi Whitaker, a senior, will also pitch for the Steelers this season. "She doesn't throw hard, but she does throw strikes. If we play good defense, we'll be all right."

"We're going to be as good as our pitching and our defense. If they can come through, we should be able to score enough runs and be competitive this season," Lignoul said.

The other key factor is how the Steelers' young infield will do. Jill Bledsoe, the only senior who started for North last season, will lead the infield at shortstop.

Tari Hanfelder, a senior, will play at first base, and two freshmen, Cathy Hutchings as second base and Michelle Morgan at shortstop will also start in the infield.

Bledsoe's got to take charge out there in the infield and we can go as far as the infield and pitching takes us. The two freshmen both can play. They're not bad," Lignoul said.

Bledsoe hit .333 last season and only made three errors in 47 fielding attempts.

Girls likely to see action in the outfield this year include senior Kim Mushill, junior Gayla Lockhard, and sophomores Lisa Lilly and Cindy Minner. Trisha Atkinson will catch for the Steelers this season.

Karen Fuller, Michelle Sekora, Susan Page and Debbie James should also help the Steelers out this season.

"We've got quite a bit of team speed this year with Bledsoe, Hutchings and Fanning," Lignoul said.

Crimsons down Warrior netters 6-3

GRANITE CITY — Warrior tennis coach Rich Harmon matched his young netters against a more experienced Jacksonville team Saturday, and came away a winner in one-third of the matches. The Warriors lost the pairing 6-3.

For the Warriors, victories came at the experienced hands (and rackets) of John Menendez and Matt Sheridan. Each won their singles matches, and both teamed up to win the first doubles match. Both were state qualifiers last year.

"We're coming around. We've got a long way to go, but we've got a week off before our next match, and I think we'll be stronger by then," Harmon said. The Warriors take on Chokila next Monday, April 5, at home.

Jacksonville's coach Gary Vaughn expressed a more positive feeling about his Crimson team, calling it "the most experienced Jacksonville tennis team" he's coached during his five-year tenure.

On the first court Saturday South's Menendez edged Jacksonville's Stuart Gonzales 7-5 in the first set, then smothered him in the second set 6-0 for the Warrior's first win.

South's number two singles player, Matt Sheridan, had a more difficult time with his opponent, Chris Clark. Sheridan downed Clark in the first set 6-3, lost the second set by the same score, and overcame Clark in the final set 6-4 for the second Warrior victory.

In the third singles competition South's Charles Miles lost to Darren Scobbe in straight sets, 6-1, 7-5.

Brian Sparks lost to Jeff Blue of Jacksonville in another singles match 6-3, 6-2.

South's biggest tennis player Don Kaltmayer fell to John Biloz in two sets 6-2, 6-2.

Kevin Dickerson lost to Ted Tribble in the final singles match 6-4, 6-2.

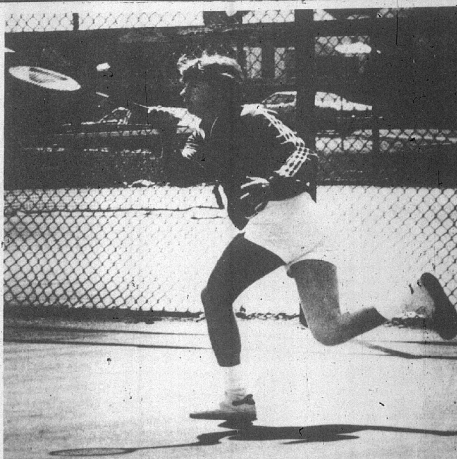

As mentioned, Menendez and Sheridan teamed to defeat the Crimsons' number one singles team, 6-4, 3-6, and 6-1. The Warriors turned back a second set surge by Jacksonville's Gonzales and Clark to win the third set and the match.

A lesser experienced Warrior second doubles team lost to Jacksonville's Scobbe and Blue in straight sets 6-1, 6-2.

In the final doubles competition, Sparks and Kaltmayer fell to Biloz and Tribble, 6-4, 6-3.

ON THE RUN. Warrior tennis player John Menendez caught this return from Jacksonville's Stuart Gonzales in Saturday's tennis action at Granite City South High School. Menendez defeated Gonzales in straight sets 7-5, 6-0, but unfortunately the rest of the Warriors didn't fair as well as Jacksonville won the pairing 6-3.

Madison tracksters finish third in Highland

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

HIGHLAND — Madison's Trojan track team, an unbalanced team with weaknesses in the distance and field events, are their own worst enemies.

Last Thursday, the Trojans traveled to Highland for their first dual meet of the season. And, as in their first two meets this year, the team's weaknesses in distance and field events surpassed their supremacy in the track events.

"We blew them away in the track events," said Madison's coach, Steve Steptoe. "But we're coming along in the other events too. It'll just take us some time."

In much the same way Madison sprinted to many of the first place track honors, Mascoutah dominated the field events, winning four of the five. Not only did the Indians grab the most first place field honors, but they also walked away with several second and third place finishes, denying Madison reciprocal field event points.

Jerseyville managed a second place in the meet with a consistent, balanced team taking more second- and third place finishes.

Madison finished the meet a close third place, with 65 points, behind Mascoutah with 91 points and Jerseyville with 67. Highland finished a distant fourth with 34 points.

It was a day better suited for waterfowl, than fleet-footed tracksters. Cool temperatures and a persistent drizzling rain that lasted until mid-day made for poor conditions by track time.

"It was awful cold. I can't help think that we'd have done better if it had been a little warmer," Steptoe said. "I guess it all works out. It hinders the other teams as much as it does us."

Highlights of the meet included victories by the 400 meter relay and 800 meter relay teams consisting of Willie Ball, Ron Briggs, Tim Prothro and Shawn Brown.

Prothro also won the 110 yard high hurdles with a time of 17.0.

Baseball Warriors split double-header

GRANITE CITY — John Modica, Granite City South's baseball coach, expected the Warriors to have a shaky start in the opening game of Saturday's double-header with Washington and a well played game in the second game.

The Warriors played well the first game and defeated Washington 4-1 but could only get one hit in the second game and lost 6-0 in the second game.

"In the second game, we looked like we should have won the first game," Modica said. "It's early and we didn't play too bad. The hitting's got to come along though."

"It's not a bad start," Modica said. "It would have been nice being 2-0, but 1-1 isn't too bad."

South got plenty of hitting in the first game of the double-header. The Warriors got eight hits, four in the sixth inning, to topple Washington.

In the sixth inning, Ricky Dial and John Linhart both singled and scored on George Jarvis's triple. Dominic Griffin, the winning pitcher for South, hit a single to drive in Jarvis.

Both teams scored in the first inning. South scored its run when Scott Greathouse scored on Joe Schnefke's triple.

Both starting pitcher Mike Zukas and Griffin were effective on the mound. In Zukas's five innings of work, he gave up three hits and four walks. Griffin took over in the sixth and gave up no hits or walks.

"They both did a good job. They're not strikeout pitchers, but they have pretty good control. Zukas walked four, but they didn't hurt because he was able to work around them. Griffin did a super job," Modica said.

Schnefke was 2-for-3 at the plate for the Warriors.

Bucolas of Washington struck out two Warriors in the second game, and Phil Dadak got the only hit, a single, off Bucolas.

"He was a breaking ball pitcher, and it's harder to hit breaking ball pitchers," Modica said. "The cold weather was a factor, and it was colder the second game than the first game. But it was colder for them too."

Starting pitcher George Dial took the loss for South.

The Warriors, 1-1 on the season, travel to Roxana today and host Wood River in a doubleheader at 4 p.m. Poor weather conditions Friday forced the cancellation of South's game with Chicago Marist. The game will not be rescheduled.

New Lenox edges Steelers in seventh

EDWARDSVILLE — If high school baseball games could last only six innings long, Granite City South's baseball squad would be 2-0.

Unfortunately, for the Steelers, high school games last seven innings. North lost to New Lenox Providence 8-4 Friday after Providence had a six run rally in the seventh inning.

The Steelers' opening loss to Triad Wednesday also came because of a seventh inning rally, and North coach Bob Stegemier is looking for pitching help.

"We couldn't hold them in the seventh inning again," North coach Bob Stegemier said. "We just ran out of pitchers in the seventh inning. We're still looking for pitching to go seven innings instead of six."

The Steelers led 4-2 going into the seventh, but North's Jimmy Burton, who replaced starter Ray Takmajian in the fourth inning, turned two double plays. "We hit much better than we

This meant the Steelers had to pitch Mike Sullivan and Kevin Patterson, neither of whom are regular pitchers. Providence took advantage of the Steelers' dilemma.

Dan Murphy singled and scored on Tom Seibers' home run which tied the game. Two walks and a single loaded the bases, and another walk scored a run. A throwing error by North's Darren DePew allowed two runs to score. Providence scored another run on a single.

North took two runs in the first. Kevin Hayes and DePew both singled and scored on a 3-base error on a fly ball by Steve Tritschuh. Carl Luehmann hit a triple in the third and scored on Hayes's single. David Shiekh doubled for North in the sixth inning and scored on Brian Levin's single.

North had 11 hits and turned two double plays. "We hit much better than we

PRETTY GARDENS AND UGLY BACKACHES

There's nothing more flattering to a home than a well-kept yard, well-trimmed shrubs, and well-tended flower beds. Likewise, a vegetable garden that produces a bumper crop of tomatoes, turnips, and green beans is most flattering to its owner and a good pattern for the world.

Most people hibernate all winter. Then, at the first sign of spring, try to make their lawns or gardens the most attractive on the block—all in one day. They dig, dig, dig, trim, trim, trim... lift, lift, lift... bend, bend, bend. The result is ache, ache, ache. Their backs hurt, their muscles are sore, and they wonder why.

Although gardening does not use tremendous surges of energy or force the body into shock situations as might be required by activities like competitive sports, it should be recognized that the health cost may be just as serious. Many health disorders are the result of awkward postural positions, use of muscles not conditioned for the activity, and overexertion. Not necessarily accidents.

— Warm up your muscles to a fast pace 10 minutes before you embark on a tough project.

— Don't bend over for long periods of time without taking standing breaks.

— Don't lift more than you can handle.

— Wear clothing that does not restrict or confine your movements.

— Wear flat, comfortable shoes that offer firm support.

— Use the proper tool for each job.

— Avoid becoming over-heated or chilled.

— Avoid cold drinks when overexerted.

— As a preventive measure against health disorders which result from a strained or sprained spinal column, have periodic chiropractic spinal examinations.

— Don't let those beautiful chrysanthemums give you an ugly pain in the back!

Growing onions in home gardens

By CHRIS DOLL

Area Garden Adviser

The onion is one of the important commercial vegetable crops of the world and is widely grown in home gardens.

Onions commonly grown are the mild types like White and Yellow Sweet Spanish or the pungent, globe types. The more pungent onions are better suited to long-term storage.

The common onion is established in the garden from either seed, plants or sets for use as both green onions and dry bulbs.

The home gardener will usually have more success with sets. The multiplier onions and the top or Egyptian onions are established from vegetative parts rather than seed.

Both multiplier and Egyptian onions are planted in the fall in northern states, overwintered with some mulch protection, and brought into production in the early spring.

Due to this method of culture, the onions are referred to as "winter onions." However, the common onion is most popular and widely grown in home gardens.

Standard onion variety or hybrid can be used for green bunching onions if harvested at the proper stage of maturity. Onions can be used as green onions within 30 days if grown from plants or sets or 40 to 50 days if grown from seed.

Any variety can be used green, but Beltsville Bunching or Long White Bunching may be best.

For dry onions from seeds, plants or sets, use Yellow Globe, White Globe and Benny's Red.

And for the sweetest kinds, use plants of white or yellow Sweet Spanish, Bermuda or Benny's Red.

The onion is adapted to a wide range of temperatures and is frost tolerant. Best production is obtained when cool temperatures (65 to 75 degrees F.) prevail over an extensive time, permitting considerable foliage and root development before bulbing starts.

After bulbing, high temperatures and low relative humidity extending into the harvest and curing period are desirable.

A constant supply of adequate moisture is necessary for best results.

An important aspect of the onion environment is that of the length of day or photoperiod. Photoperiod along with temperature controls the time at which onions form bulbs.

Some onion varieties are short day in response, and form bulbs when the days are 12 hours or less in length. Other varieties are long day plants and form bulbs when the days are long, up to 15 or more hours of daylight.

Because of this effect of day length, some southern varieties are unsuited to growth in northern climates, because they begin to bulb when plants are too small, giving unsatisfactory results.

Due to the influence of the photoperiod, Sweet Spanish and Bermuda onions should be grown from plants rather than seed.

Onions grow best in a loose, well drained soil of high fertility which is well supplied with organic matter. It is best to avoid heavier soils such as clay and silt loams unless modified with organic matter to improve aeration and drainage.

Onions are sensitive to high acid soils and grow best when the pH is between 5.8 and 6.8.

As the onion plant root system is limited, high soil fertility is essential for good production. Normal fertilization of one pound of 12-12-12 per 100 square feet before planting should aid in good growth.

Plant onions early in the spring as soon as the soil can be properly prepared. Onion seed is sown half an inch deep, while sets are planted 1 to 2 inches deep.

A three-inch plant spacing is desirable. Rows should be 12-18 inches apart or more.

depending on the method of cultivation to be used. Keep the crop weed free and watered as needed.

Do not throw silt over the bulbing plants, as this will hinder growth. Watch for insect feeding and control if necessary.

Harvest the onions when the tops are dry and the bulbs are mature. This is when the tops have fallen over. On a sunny, breezy day, dig the onions and leave in the garden for a day or two to dry before they are taken to the curing area.

Cure onions until the necks are thoroughly dry in a warm, well ventilated area. With warm temperatures, good air circulation and low humidity, curing should be done within two weeks after harvest. Onions are best stored in a cool, moderately moist area in ventilated containers.

Wolf submits bill for state to collect local sales taxes

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City's desire for the Illinois Department of Revenue to collect the city's new 3 1/2-percent sales tax could have a state-wide impact, if a house bill to collect the tax is successful.

House Bill 2022, filed last week by State Rep. Sam Wolf, would require the state department of revenue to collect, upon request, supplemental sales taxes imposed by home rule municipalities and counties.

Wolf, of Granite City, said that such action might allow local municipalities to seek revenue relief through sales taxes without being forced to operate their own taxing bureaucracy.

The drive for the bill started when Granite City officials began looking for a way to avoid forming their own Department of Revenue to collect a 3 1/2-percent sales tax imposed in January.

The city eventually was left to form its own collection system after advisors in Springfield said the state law prevented collection of the tax by the state revenue department for Granite City.

With urging from the city, Wolf continued to seek a way for the state to collect the tax. In January, he filed House Bill 1937 to achieve the same result as the newly proposed bill, but that bill was not as compatible with the state's present sales tax structure.

Wolf said that in the past, such types of bills have not met with success because the state Department of Revenue saw such joint collection efforts as a process much too complex to encourage. "This bill is a little bit different," said Rep. Wolf of H.B. 2022.

The current bill was drafted with the assistance of the state department of revenue, he noted, speculating that the department has chosen to be cooperative now, because the time has come for this particular type of assistance to be available to revenue-starved local municipalities.

The state could act as the central collection agent more economically, effectively and efficiently, according to Wolf.

The bill, if passed in its present form, would allow that flexibility to all 96 home rule units in the state.

It is possible that state collection of the local sales tax could lessen existing pressure between Granite City and some merchants who question the collection procedures of the city.

One of the retailers' main objections is the city's request for copies of the state revenue collection forms from each business, containing extensive information of business operations. "Presumably, under the new system no such duplication problems would arise."

Rep. Wolf said the bill must first pass the Rules Committee and, if accepted, will be assigned to a standing house committee. Wolf predicted that the bill will be assigned to the House Revenue Committee.

Granite City may find out how successful its efforts are to change the state sales collection law by the time the General Assembly session ends June 30.

JUMPING FOR FUND. More than 100 students of the Madison Middle School participate in the "Jump Rope for Heart" program last week. Each of the students solicited pledges for each minute they jumped rope with all proceeds going to the Heart Fund. The students were all trying for the three-hour maximum limit for continuous jumping.

News notes

The 400 delegates to the 44th annual Illinois Federation of Teachers on Saturday overwhelmingly endorsed Democrat Adlai Stevenson for governor, citing "the very critical threats to education generated by 'Reaganomics' and the budget cuts proposed by Gov. James R. Thompson." Both candidates addressed the group. In another campaign development, it was revealed the governor used campaign funds to buy nearly $10,000 worth of Christmas gifts for his staff and friends and to pay $4,000 to a baby sitter for his young daughter.

Youth death rate declines

Although fewer Illinoisans in the 15-24 age group died in 1980 as compared with 1970, more of them died as a result of suicide. And the death rate among young whites from homicide rose 142.6 percent in that decade. During the same time, the homicide death rate among young blacks dropped by 31.9 percent.

"In spite of the increase in deaths from homicide and suicide, the overall death rate for persons in this area group declined from 127 per 100,000 in 1970 to 100 in 1980," William L. Kempiners, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said last week.

"The overall decline is due to a dramatic decrease in the rate of adolescent and young-adult deaths from accidents (other than motor vehicle accidents), drug abuse and cancer."

"The decline in the death rate among young Illinoisans is a reversal of the sharp rise in mortality among persons in the 15-24 age group which occurred between 1960 and 1970," Kempiners said. "However, the adolescent and young-adult death rate in 1980, although lower than it was in 1970, is still higher than it was 20 years ago." The 1960 death rate for the 15-24 age group was 99 per 100,000.

GREEN LAWNS

GO WITH EXPERIENCE ...

WE'RE CELEBRATING OUR 25th YEAR ... This area's oldest lawn spray company ... we invented it.

We know, as all agronomists know, that the secret to beautiful grass is properly scheduled applications of herbicide to control both grass type (crabgrass) and broadleaf (dandelions - chickweed) weeds and insecticide to control webworms, chinch bugs, etc.

Included in our spray program are applications of SLOW RELEASE NITROGEN THAT NEVER STOPS FEEDING as long as your grass is growing and actually slows down its feeding during periods of low rainfall when it's not needed. If your lawn isn't receiving applications of ... NITROFORM ... you're not getting your money's worth.

THE GREEN LAWNS PLAN ...

Provides five sprays - early Spring, late Spring Summer, late Summer, early Fall, and Fall. It supplies fertilizers just when your lawn needs them. Five broadleaf weed sprays to control dandelion, chickweed, buckhorn, plantain spurge ... Those weeds that seem never to stop coming up from early Spring to late Fall. Crabgrass control and insecticide applications in the Summer.

RATES FOR THE GREEN LAWNS PROGRAM ARE BASED ON THE AREA TO BE TREATED, NOT TOTAL LOT SIZE. AND ... THE LARGER THE LAWN THE LOWER THE COST PER 1000 SQUARE FEET.

OUR PROGRAM CONTINUES YEAR AFTER YEAR - REQUIRES NO CONTRACT AND PROVIDES FOR PAYMENT BY MAIL AFTER EACH APPLICATION FOR AS LONG AS YOU DESIRE AFTER THE FIRST FIVE APPLICATIONS (5% DISCOUNT FOR PRE-PAYMENT.)

UNIQUE CHALLENGE. David Huntley, left, director of Cultural Arts and University Museums at Southern Illinois at Edwardsville, Dan Holder of Edwardsville and Mike Mason, curator, apply feather dusters to a 40-foot mobile hanging in the campus University Center. Designed by Yasuhide Kobashi of Kyoto, Japan, the artwork is made up of 448 nylon monofilament lines hanging through a wooden frame and carrying wooden dowels of varying diameter and length. "The interplay of light from the skylight immediately above the sculpture gives the effect of a heavy rain striking the dowels and the view from the various eye levels is impressive and intriguing," Huntley said. The work was displayed at the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh.

Hints on preparing against flooding

Transportation Secretary John D. Kramer is urging all Illinois citizens to prepare themselves for the possibility of flooding this spring.

"While no severe flooding is forecast statewide at this time," Kramer said, "isolated instances already have occurred and Illinois" spring flooding season is far from over. It just makes good sense to prepare and protect ourselves against the damage that floods can cause.

"Governor James Thompson has put state forces in readiness to respond to flood emergencies, should they occur. But even with that assurance, there is a great deal that people can and should do to protect themselves and their property from damage," he said.

The department recommends that residents obtain a free copy of the booklet, "Protect Your Home From Flood Damage" by writing to: Flood Help, Springfield, Ill., 62764.

Consider purchasing flood insurance through the National Flood Insurance Program. Information on this low-cost protection can be obtained through insurance agents.

Become more alert for possible flooding conditions by paying close attention to weather forecasts and bulletins.

Travelers trace Magellan's route

Travelers Abroad "visited" Chile during the March meeting, attended by 30 members and two guests, Miss Lucinda Huck and Mrs. Martha Bischoff.

Miss Betty Townsend, president, conducted a business meeting and the group decided to have a May gathering this year, since the meeting facilities will be available.

Suggestions were sought for the group's Christmas party and a decision will be made at the April meeting as to its location, so that a reservation can be made this spring.

Dr. Alice Purdes, program chairman, introduced Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stoevers, who presented a narrated slide program on Chile and the Strait of Magellan.

The Stoevers were on a 63-day cruise a few months ago which involved stops at 18 different ports and which was divided into two phases. The first phase, called the Transcanal Cruise, started at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and had a destination of San Francisco after visiting several islands, including St. Thomas, plus Venezuela, and passing through the Panama Canal.

Many passengers disembarked at San Francisco and were replaced by an entirely different type of group.

Heading south to Chile, the Stoevers discovered that the country is over 2,900 miles long, and at its narrowest point is only 56 miles wide.

Its widest point is at the Strait of Magellan, its very southern tip of the country. The Chileans refer to their country as a "sheepskin."

The average Chilean family has only two children, and 62 to 65 is the oldest age most citizens reach. This is due to tension and the spicy foods that are eaten, the club was told.

Several nationalities have settled in Chile, among them about 300 Arabs. The Arabs supposedly were on a ship that broke down and it took so long to get repairs that the group remained there.

The first stop in Chile was at Valparaiso, where hills surround a basin area in which the commercial center is located.

Valparaiso is the most important port on the western shore of South America. All products pass through here except ores. Gasoline was $1.95 a gallon.

Two hours from Valparaiso is the capital, Santiago.

On San Cristobal Hill, which is 1,200 feet high, is the statue of the Virgin Mary which is 72 feet high. It was a gift from France in 1908 and is flood-lighted at night.

The Stoevers' two-day shore trip to Santiago was not worth the extra cost, they decided. An evening dinner, scheduled for 9 o'clock at the Hilton Hotel, was so late that they did not get their food until 11:30 p.m.

A novelty, they thought, was the subway. It consisted of regular train cars but they ran on rubber-tired wheels, which added to the comfort.

During the cruise, there were minor earthquakes in the area and the ship encountered extremely rough water for five or six days. The Easter Islands belong to Chile and are noted for their huge stone figures, the speakeas said.

The Sky province of Osorno are many beautiful lakes and falls. The Petrovna Falls are a series of falls in several stages, not like our Niagara Falls," they explained.

The Osorno volcano, with a perfect cone shape, dominates the area around the falls.

One of the inns there had a unique fireplace. It was made from a steam boiler which still had its top but the base had been cut off so it could rest on the stove hearth.

The outside of the inn was covered completely with wooden shingles.

The Stoevers said this was their last cruise on the Royal Viking Sky, a 22,000-ton ocean liner equipped for about 500 passengers.

The Sky, as well as its sister ships, is scheduled to be enlarged through the process of cutting it in two and inserting a 60-foot section in the middle of the ship.

The owners feel that many more passengers can be served by the addition of only a few personnel, and that the increased passenger revenue will keep the ships operating more successfully.

As the Stoevers neared the Strait of Magellan, in extreme southern Chile, they received some startling statistics.

It would have taken 200 ships the size of those that explorer Magellan had to equal the size of the Sky.

It took Magellan, in 1519, 38 days to pass from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific, via the Strait, while the Sky made the trip in just two days.

A canal leads from the western or Pacific side of Chile down to connect with the Strait and it took 12 hours to reach this area.

Two special pilots boarded the Sky to get the vessel through narrow passages of the canal.

In that area, the normal rainfall is 16 feet per year, with only 51 days of misty sun yearly. This was not, according to the Stoevers, the place for a "photographer's holiday."

Punta Arenas, meaning sandy point, is the southernmost city in Chile, and all ships passing through the Strait of Magellan must stop there.

This city lost much of its importance in 1914 when the Panama Canal was opened, but it still is a port for products of southern South America.

The continual wind keeps things from flourishing in the area. Only two statues of Magellan exist in the world, and one of them is located in that city.

While the Stoevers were on the cruise, Veterans Day was observed with an interfaith service. Participating were a Lutheran minister, a Jewish rabbi, a Catholic priest, and an Episcopal bishop from Australia who had received the cruise as a retirement gift from his congregation.

Mrs. Stoevers reported that the veterans' ceremony was impressive and was a "tearjerker" also.

After asking questions of the speakers, the group was dismissed until its April 26 meeting.

Pontoon Beach drive chairman

The voice of the St. Louis Cardinals, Jack Buck, chairman of the Gateway Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, has named Lillian Singer chairman of the CF bike-a-thon in Pontoon Beach.

She will conduct the event this spring to raise funds to support research and care for children affected by cystic fibrosis.

The fatal lung and digestive disease affects one in every 1,500 babies born in the U.S. In order for a child to have cystic fibrosis, both parents must carry the recessive CF gene. But one in 20 people may be carriers, without knowing it.

With continued research, a test may be discovered to determine who are carriers of the CF gene. At this point, 50 percent of CF patients are living to enjoy their 18th birthday and beyond, due to improved therapy, Buck said.

"You can help children who can't take breathing granted by participating in our bike-a-thon," Mrs. Singer commented, "and have a lot of fun besides."

Gardenaires re-elect current officers

The March meeting of the Gardenaires Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Kohl, last week. Mrs. Kohl served lunch to the members and a guest, Mrs. William Lindsey of Cahokia. Mrs. Lindsey is the retiring director of District V of the Garden Clubs of Illinois.

Prior to the business meeting the club history book was presented to the president, and was prepared by club historian, Mrs. Andrew Gonzalez. The book will be displayed at the annual meeting of District V, to be held in Jerseyville, Ill., today. Eight members of the local club are planning to attend this meeting.

During the business meeting the officers and standing committee chairmen read their annual reports. Mrs. Long and Mrs. Roy Hornmann reported they had researched and prepared 12 exhibits for the mini-garden information center at the public library. Publicity chairman, Mrs.

Kohl, announced the club publicity for the past year had been sent to the state chairman for evaluation. The president said plans have been completed for a biology group of students from South High School to visit the Missouri Botanical Gardens in St. Louis, next month. Science instructor Mr. Rensing will be in charge of this group, and Ronald Pennell will also accompany the students.

Mrs. Mary Kristian and Mrs. Schank were appointed to provide a table centerpiece for the dinner honoring retiring park director Harold Brown.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the current officers were elected to serve another year. They are: president — Mrs. Leo Schank, vice-president — Mrs. Richard Kerch, secretary — Mrs. C. E. Eads, and treasurer — Mrs. Mary Kristian.

Mrs. Lindsey installed the officers, and concluded the installation by congratulating the officers and members for their activities and efforts in promoting garden club ideas.

Program Chairman, Mrs. Kerch, announced the April meeting of the club would be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Hintz on Thursday, April 8.

Food has a fascinating history

(Second in a series of 15 articles exploring "Food and People." In this article, food columnist and international food journalist Waverley Root discusses factors that have shaped various diets throughout history, particularly the American diet. Copyright (c) 1982 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By WAVERLEY ROOT

People are creatures of habit. And of their habits, few are more firmly fixed than those pertaining to eating.

In western Sicily, for example, chick peas are cooked by being stirred briskly in a kettle with heated pebbles.

It would be much easier to set the peas over the flame, on which the pebbles are heated, but this habit has been ingrained since pre-Nesbitt times. Before people had learned to make cooking vessels that could withstand fire.

In Apulia, in southern Italy, baby eels are placed in shallow pans of sea water and set in the sun until the water has evaporated, when they are deemed to be cooked. This habit dates to the period before men had learned to cook with fire.

And yet, despite resistance, people's eating habits do change; otherwise, we would still be feasting on pebble-baked chick peas and sun-simmered eels.

Eating habits may be shaped by basic geographical factors, by such frivolous factors as snobbery, by movements of people and goods, and by economic forces.

GEOGRAPHIC FACTORS

Most important, of course, is the kind of food available. This is determined chiefly by geographical factors especially temperature, altitude, soil quality, precipitation and location.

In the temperate zones, populations tend to be omnivorous. Move toward the hotter tropics and vegetarian diets become adequate; move toward the colder poles and people become carnivorous.

Eskimos eat mainly fish and mammals, not only because that is what they have, but also because they need a heat-generating diet to keep warm.

Mountaineers eat more heavily than their neighbors on the plains below; they need more fuel to heat themselves and to supply energy for the heightened effort of working in a thinner atmosphere.

Soil quality, too, is important. Those brilliant green fields of Ireland, so beautiful to the eye, offer poor nourishment for most plants, but sufficient for the potato, which became the national staple.

Rainfall also affects diet: the peoples of monsoon countries eat rice; those of arid regions, millet.

Populations of the interior eat differently from those of the coast.

PIRATES AND PRIDE. Of course, you will say: dwellers on the coast eat seafood. It's not necessarily so.

Solenzara in eastern Corsica, lies on waters teeming with spiny lobsters. But if you want to eat one, place an order the day before; a boy will be dispatched to Bastia, 65 miles to the north, to buy one for you.

Solenzara has not eaten a lobster since its inhabitants retreated into the brush several centuries ago to escape pirate raids; Bastia, a larger city, was strong enough to defy them.

The ancient Greeks held fish in little esteem, through snobbery. Any serf with a hook could easily take a fish; it was therefore considered unworthy of their betters.

Sardinians shunned their coasts because of pirates and malaria. Once the island has given its name to a fish, they eat little seafood. They simply never acquired the habit.

Eating habits, it seems, may be formed by such secondary factors as fear of pirates and of disease, as well as by basic geographical factors.

And these secondary factors are even more important in changing eating habits, if only because geographical factors — with a few exceptions, such as the abrupt temperature drop of about A.D. 1000 — do not themselves rapidly change.

PEOPLE ON THE MOVE. So the most important changes in eating habits have been caused by movement — of whole populations and of armies, of their merchants.

Mass migrations do not really change eating habits; they merely move them from one area to another. Over time, the invaders may impose their eating habits upon the invaded; or the invaded may seduce the invaders into adopting their foods.

The two cuisines may long coexist, as when the Aryans of India brought wheat and butter to a country addicted to rice and vegetable oils, because the conquerors forbade their own people to stoop to the base foods of a defeated race.

The Saracens, in their southern drive, pushed through North Africa to its Atlantic coast, and into Spain, southern France, and Italy, and in their northern drive to the walls of Vienna.

They left behind new foods (spinach) and new techniques, including distilling and the art of making the fine, flaky, many-leaved pastry found today in Austria as strudel.

Military movements have often changed eating habits — of both the conquerors and the conquered.

In 185 B.C., for example, the Roman Army returned from the East with an acquired taste for Oriental dishes and Greek cooks to make them, thus replacing stolid simplicity with imperial extravagance.

But when the Barbarians toppled the Roman Empire six centuries later, they destroyed the lines of communication which had been bringing to it the foods of the whole known world.

Nowadays, the factors that affect our eating habits are chiefly economic. These factors tend to delete the quality of our food, obliging us to resign ourselves to dependable mediocrity; but they do not change its nature.

AMERICAN CUISINE. American eating habits, indeed, are of a nature resistant to change.

English-speaking colonists brought them to America from the British Isles, where the influences described above, among others, had crystallized over the centuries into a stable and consistent cuisine deeply embedded in the national character.

America inherited them at a propitious period, that of the Tudors.

Tudor cooking was sturdy, even lusty, unlikely to develop delicate or subtle for at least two reasons: first, England did not produce wine, so it ate food that went down with beer; whiskey (to which America added rum).

And second, it smothered its dishes under too much salt and sugar (to which America added maple sugar and molasses).

Spices were rampant, too, as were the more assertive herbs and condiments.

It was a period not much given to vegetables — though fruit was much eaten — but the consumption of meat, poultry and game was heavy.

These English habits were passed on intact to America, where their spirit has prevailed to this day, virtually unaltered by the numerous foreign influences to which the national cuisine has been exposed.

New foods did not change the nature of American cooking; it was the nature of the new foods that was changed in the crucible of the American kitchen, to make it conform with the dominant spirit.

The Anglo-American cuisine barely registered the existence of American Indian cooking, though its contributions were not negligible: hominy, clam chowder, oyster stew, Boston baked beans (!) and, after the settlers imported the pig, Smithfield ham, a Cherokee invention.

The South absorbed easily the new foods imported from Africa by Negro slaves: okra, black-eyed peas, collard greens, the watermelon.

Successive waves of immigration brought European cuisine to America, but they seldom entered the mainstream unchanged.

They tended instead, when they succeeded in retaining their individuality, to remain confined to culinary enclaves: German cooking was confined to the Pennsylvania Dutch in Lancaster County, and Chinese cooking by Cantonese in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Even that home-made mixture of exotic contributions, Creole cooking, stayed in New Orleans.

There has been no lack, in the nearly four centuries since the Pilgrims of New England and the Cavaliers of Virginia brought Tudor eating habits to America, of assaults by foreign eating habits on the citadel of Anglo-American cooking.

But the fortress has held firm. The American cuisine remains basically the English cuisine.

2-YEAR PROBATION IN RAILROAD THEFT

Clyde Banks (Wallace), 26, of 820 Third St., Venice, was placed on two-year probation this month for a Dec. 27, 1981, felony theft of railroad property.

Stretching Earth's resources is topic of senior dialogue

An anthropology professor who believes there is an upper limit to the standard of living the earth can support will be the guest speaker at the March 31 Dialogue with Senior Citizens at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Thomas J. Maloney, a specialist in cultural anthropology with experience in central America, will discuss the view that "modern" nations should move from consumer to frugal societies.

"The economic pie is limited and others are demanding a share of it in the name of equity and biological survival," he said, "Frugality, rather than maximum consumption, appears to be the hallmark, however unpopular politically."

Maloney holds degrees in chemical engineering, theology and anthropology. He has been a practicing minister in the Unitarian Church. He is a frequent speaker at conferences on ways to improve economic and social conditions in developing countries and has completed research in Mexico and Costa Rica.

The Dialogue meets from 1:30 to 4 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the University Center, sponsored by the SIUE Gerontology Program. It is part of a continuing series for senior citizens, presenting a different speaker or program each Wednesday afternoon through May. Admission is free.

For additional information, interested persons may contact Lisa Pettit at 1-692-3454.

THEFT AND CURFEW
Richard D. Bromley, 17, of 2422 Delmar Ave., was released after posting a $104 cash bond on charges of theft and curfew violation. Bromley and a 15-year-old boy were seen by Granite City police walking west near 23rd Street and Madison Avenue caddyng an auto battery. The youths originally stated the battery belonged to the 16-year-old's father. After the father told police that it did not belong to him, the youths allegedly admitted having stolen the battery from an auto in the 2200 block of Iowa St.

Final arguments today

By ED GURNEY

Attorneys were scheduled to make final arguments this morning in the trial of a St. Louis man accused of forcing a 13-year-old runaway into prostitution.

The case was then expected to go to the six-man, six-women jury.

The credibility and motivation of the alleged victim were topics on the final day of testimony at the trial Friday.

The case presented by defense attorneys Forris Elliott and Ed Welch appeared particularly designed to dispute three Class X felony charges of exploitation of a child against Goodman.

To prove those charges, Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Susan Jensen and Randy Massey had to show the girl was threatened with bodily harm and compelled to be a prostitute.

Penalty upon conviction on an exploitation charge is six to 30 years in prison.

Goodman is also charged with two counts of juvenile pimping, a Class I felony that carries a penalty of four to 15 years in jail.

TRAILER AXLES GONE
Two trailer axles valued at more than $100 were stolen Friday from the storage yard of Butch's Fence and Materials Co. in the 1300 block of Washington Avenue, Madison.

Richard A. Kostoff, 20, of the 1700 block of Sixth St., Madison, appeared in court in Granite City Thursday and pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a weapon and reckless driving.

He declined to enter a plea on charges of attempting to elude police and a felony charge of possession of a weapon.

Bond was set at $5,000 and he was released on his own recognizance by Circuit Judge George Moran Jr.

Kostoff was arrested by Madison police Wednesday morning following an investigation.

TROOPERS CHARGE 3 LOCAL MOTORISTS
Charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol were filed against three Quad-Cityans last week and during the weekend by Illinois state police.

Roger G. McGinness, 27, of Washington Ave., was arrested at 11:35 p.m. Thursday at Chain of Rocks Road and Sand Road; Ronald Grace, 17, of 3220 Edgewood at 12:50 a.m. Saturday on Maryville Road at O'Hare Avenue; and Anna M. Jarman, 22, of 206 Sunny Shores, Mitchell.

Glen Carbon may use sewer system

About 1,500 Glen Carbon homes may be tapped on both the Granite City Wastewater Treatment Plant and the Madison County Special Service Area One systems, according to Gene Futch, superintendent of the Area One.

The Madison County Special Sewer Service Committee will hold a meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the sewer office, 301 E. Chain of Rocks Road, to discuss rates charges for the proposed hookup.

Futch said the Environmental Protection Agency has requested that a portion of the Glen Carbon area be switched to the Special Service Area, rather than building a new system to handle the addition users.

"It would be great," commented Futch.

He said the hookups will probably be financed through a 75 percent federal grant, which would mean new funds could be pumped into the sewer district.

Equipment the district could use, but has been financially unable to purchase such as trucks and television monitoring equipment, would be a possibility through the regional sewer concept, combining Glen Carbon with the district.

Futch said the mayor of Glen Carbon has requested a conference with the Special Service Area One. The sewer committee, however, will first meet Wednesday to determine what sort of financial contribution the district should request.

A Granite City boy, 16, was captured after a chase on foot at 11:35 p.m. Friday near a store at Edna and East 23rd streets. Charged with disorderly conduct and possessing a controlled substance in a plastic bag, he was released on $52 bail.

Appeals court upholds Arlin Davis conviction

By ED GURNEY
A three-judge appellate court panel Thursday affirmed the conviction of Arlin Davis in connection with the New Year's Eve, 1979 accident that resulted in the deaths of three Granite City residents.

The court also ordered that the circuit court sentence Davis, leaving open the possibility that he might receive a longer prison term than had been given originally. Davis had received a three-year term; the term might be lengthened to nine or more years.

Affirmed were convictions on three counts of reckless homicide, one count of driving while intoxicated, and one count of driving with a suspended permit.

Davis, 52, of the Holiday Mobile Home Court, remains free on bond. His attorney, John Gitchoff, said Friday he had not yet read the appellate court's decision and therefore was uncertain about a possible appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Davis was convicted in a bench trial in November 1980. A sentence of three years was imposed a year ago this month by Associate Judge John Day.

The appellate court, in a decision written by Judge Moses Harrison of Collinsville, stated Day erred in failing to impose a separate sentence on each count.

Maximum sentence for reckless homicide is three years; a term of up to one year can be imposed for drunk driving.

Captured off gun fires; arrest 3
Captured by Granite City police in the 1900 block of Madison Avenue shortly after 1 p.m. Saturday, three men were charged with retail theft, unlawful use of a weapon and reckless conduct.

During the pursuit, it is alleged the men threw a loaded 20 gauge shotgun out of their southbound car onto Madison Avenue after they passed the Niedringhaus Avenue intersection.

The weapon, with its barrel sawed off at nine-inch length, discharged upon striking the concrete pavement. The gun was recovered as evidence by police along with one spent shell and one live shell.

Charged were Jerome Dabney, 30, and Ray N. Howard, 37, both of St. Louis, and Ronald E. Blake, 33, East St. Louis.

Officers alleged finding in the trio's auto a new pair of men's blue jeans, with the store stickers still attached. A theft of jeans had just occurred at the Belmore Glick's department store.

Parton 'clone' even sings

By NANCY ANDERSON
HOLLYWOOD — With the new ABC television series, "Nine to Five," Jane Fonda has put her foot into the water of producing to see how it feels.

If the show is successful, she can look forward to a warm and tingly feeling; otherwise, a chill.

Jane claims she's working from 9 to 5, taking her duties as producer very seriously indeed. Hers, she avers, isn't just a name among the credits to give the would-be comedy clout with network executives.

"I'm at the studio all day," says she.

Spawnd by the Fonda movie "Nine to Five," the television version not only has the feature's theme, harassment of secretaries by a nasty boss, but it also offers a look-alike for one of the movie's stars.

Dolly Parton, a centerpiece for the picture, predictably was unavailable for the television series, but her sister, Rachel Dennison, was both willing and able to step into the void.

Younger and smaller than her sis, Rachel none the less has so many of Dolly's qualities that she's close to a clone.

She even sings!

Fonda and Lily Tomlin who were in the film are replaced in the series by Valerie Curtin and Rita Moreno respectively.

While all concerned claim the new "Nine to Five" is intended as entertainment and not as a preachment, it seems to present a message, to wit:

Behind every successful man, there's a woman. And she's not his wife. She's his hired help whom he in no way appreciates.

And, while Moreno says, "If we are going to take on issues, we'll have to grow into them," the ladies of the ensemble vocally share the philosophy of their show.

"I met a lot of secretaries in downtown Los Angeles and got a lot of feedback," Curtin says.

"If you're going to be a secretary, education means very little. Legal secretaries are treated like gophers."

Since the series suggests that corporate executives are lechers, Moreno was asked whether lechery is as prevalent on a sound stage as in an office.

"I've been asked to fool around," she answered amiably. "Why do you think it took so long for me to get my name up in lights?"

However, Rita insists that she was attracted to "Nine to Five" not so much by its thrust as by the character she was asked to play.

"Violet (the Moreno character) is a mature woman who has to deal with a much younger generation," says Rita, boldly adding that her own, real age is 50 and that she hopes the show will include a segment about menopause.

Fonda intends for the series to include glimpses of the heroines in their homes, because what goes on at the desk affects life in the kitchen.

"If I've had a hard day on the set," she points out, "it affects how I cook, how I sleep, my home life, my sex life."

"Secretaries," Fonda goes on, "are going to like the series, because its issues are real."

"The film showed us that this can work."

The series limited so far to five episodes, makes its debut April 1.

Cameras were still as a rehearsal progressed.

George Gobel was asleep in his dressing room.

With saucy professionalism, Barbara Eden was delivering her hopefully laugh-provoking lines to fellow residents of Harper Valley.

Judged by surface appearances, the work day was a happy one on the sound stage at Universal Studios.

Yet there was a telltale sign that all was not as it seemed.

The avidity for press on the set was an indication that some nerves (a few, anyway) were taut in Harper Valley, the fictional village which has been Eden's home this television season.

From the very beginning of her career, Eden has been a doll where publicity has been concerned. No star has been more gracious to writers. Whether she's been in a hit or a miss, her welcoming attitude has been the same.

But on the afternoon cited here, the urging from NBC that press visit Eden's current series was so cordial that it was a giveaway that "Harper Valley" was in ratings trouble.

Inspired by a movie, "Harper Valley PTA," made at a low cost but a runaway hit at the box office and on the tube, the comedy series was still seeking its audience.

Starring Eden, a lady beloved by the public, with a first-rate supporting cast and with cornball humor, an effective ingredient of "The Dukes of Hazzard," it should have been a smash, but somehow...

While Barbara labored, Mills Watson, Uncle Buster in the show, waited to be wanted and admitted that, he didn't know how much longer his role would last...

"But I don't worry about it," he said. "When 'Lobo' was about to be canceled, I worried. Lobo's cancellation hurt."

"But I'm not worrying now."

For one thing, Watson suggested optimistically, "Harper Valley's" ratings might pick up. A new time period could do wonders.

Actually "Harper Valley" has had so many time periods the shifts may account for its problems.

In trying to help it, the network has moved it so often fans have had trouble finding it.

Watson appreciates the values of a community the size of Harper Valley (whatever size that may be), because he grew up in two of California's smaller towns, Franklin and Elk Grove, the former of which, he claims, had its entering and exiting signs on the same post.

He became interested in baseball in Elk Grove where he also lettered in baseball.

"Luckily my drama teacher had a large family," Watson reminisces, "which made it all right for him to be interested in theater. Otherwise, his masculinity would have been questioned."

The character man thinks his small town background encouraged him to act, because it gave him time to daydream.

"If you let your mind wander in Manhattan, you get hit by a bus," he argues.

It's well that Watson doesn't worry about the possible cancellation of his most recent series, because at present "Harper Valley" is hanging on by a hair.

After pulling the show for a time, NBC has ordered three more episodes. Their reception will decide "Harper Valley's" future.

HOLLYWOOD — MAUD ADAMS did what few California residents have ever done in their right minds. She gladly accepted a chance to leave Southern California to spend the winter in Chicago, where the wind chill factor dipped way below zero.

It's not as bad as you might think. She portrays Dr. Judith Bergstrom on the NBC series, "Chicago Story," 13, 90-minute episodes that intertwine the lives of doctors, lawyers and police detectives in the windy city.

"I play a surgeon," she explained. "A chief resident surgeon. In the past I've been typecast as glamorous girls. Having the opportunity to play this kind of role was fascinating."

Maud also finds that she has to subdue the very stunning looks that have taken her from being a model to acting in such films as "Tattoo."

"My character is a very beautiful woman, but she must underplay her looks in order to be taken seriously. I find that sometimes when I read for parts I have to underplay what I have. I really had to convince them I could do this part. I don't even have a romantic interest in the series."

Off screen, her romantic interest is in a very convenient profession — he's Dr. Stephen Sachs, a surgeon. Maud even observed his work as research for her part.

And don't worry about the cold Chicago winter affecting Maud. She knows snow and ice all too well. Maud was born and raised in Lulea, Sweden, in the far north of the country. It was only a modeling contest that brought her out into the world, first to Paris, then to New York.

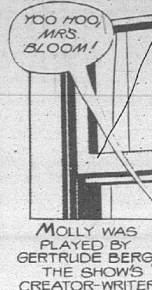

"The ball just kept rolling," she says today.

Hollywood may seem distant from Lulea, but her parents try to keep track of their daughter's career. Unfortunately, all too often it's from gossip items in the Swedish press.

"Most of what they read is not accurate," Maud laughs. "I have to spend my time convincing them that I'm not seeing that man or doing something else. It's a problem."

THE GOLDBERGS, ALREADY A RADIO CLASSIC, MADE ITS TV DEBUT IN 1949. IT TOLD THE STORY OF A JEWISH FAMILY LIVING IN THE BRONX.

Besides "Chicago Story," which is produced by ERIC BERCOVICI, who is also responsible for NBC's "Shogun," Maud has completed a film in Spain. Entitled, "Playing To Kill," it also stars MAX VON SYDOW. She is cast as an intelligence agent.

BOB NEUHART, whose old TV series took place in Chicago, is hoping to make a comeback in another weekly vehicle. He's making a pilot for CBS in which he plays a writer hoping to pen the great African novel. Meanwhile, the character is soaking up human color by running a country inn.

Other familiar names set by CBS for pilots include EFRIM ZIMBALIST, JR., EDDIE ALBERT, GIL GERARD, SUSAN SAINT JAMES and, as previously announced, SUZANNE SOMERS. Her storyline has her the mother of a 10-year-old son who also works as an actress on a soap opera.

One executive said the scenes at the studio would give the character a chance "for broad physical comedy." Somehow that seems a poor choice of words.

STEPHEN MACHT, finishing up his chores as a recurring guest star on "Knots Landing" this season, will leave for Israel to star in the "The Last Winter," also starring KATHLEEN QUINLAN. It's a feature about two women who believe a missing soldier is their husband.

His "Joanie Loves Chachi" series is getting a trial run on ABC, so SCOTT BAIO has signed for a recording contract with RCA Records on something called the Beverly Hills label. On the new series he's a rock 'n' roll singer, giving the him a chance to display his vocal abilities.

LOUIS JOURDAN, a Frenchman, has been signed as host of "Romance Theatre," which will be a series of gothic and romance novels brought to the small screen. Each week there'll be a new story in five episodes for the teary-eyed among us.

Some couples never die. Batman and Robin are back!

BURT WARD (Robin on the old TV series) has turned producer, with one of his first projects being a game show entitled "What Have You Got To Lose?"

So who did he choose as host? Batman, of course — ADAM WEST.

There will be no batmobile this time, though.

Co-starring is C.J., the orangutan recently seen in "Tarzan, The Ape Man," with BO DEREK.

With the first few episodes of "Nine to Five," her new TV series, in the can, RITA MORENO has joined the cast of "Jillian: Portrait of a Show Girl," starring with LESLEY WARREN and TONY CURTIS.

Another casting note: JAMES MASON and JACK WARREN will join PAUL NEWMAN and CHARLOTTE RAMPLING in "The Verdict."

And WOODY ALLEN has chosen "A Midsummer Night's Sex Comedy" as the title for his latest film, due out this summer (appropriately).

Word in Hollywood is that the raves DIANE KEATON has received for her work in "Shoot the Moon" could help her Oscar possibilities for "Reds."
